

Prof. Arlene Holmes-Henderson

Arlene Holmes-Henderson MBE is an expert on language education whose research explores the value and benefits of the teaching of classical subjects in schools and beyond. She is Professor of Classics Education and Public Policy at Durham University and currently holds a British Academy Innovation Fellowship (2022-2024) on 'Levelling up through talk: how does oracy contribute to social mobility and employability?'. She studied Classics at Oxford, Cambridge and Harvard and holds a Doctorate in Education from the University of Glasgow. Her many publications include Forward with Classics: classical languages in schools and communities (Bloomsbury 2018) and Expanding Classics: Practitioner Perspectives from Museums and Schools (Routledge 2023).

<https://www.durham.ac.uk/staff/arlene-v-holmes-henderson/>